Brief Medical History - please enclose extra pages if this space is not enough

The Homocysteine test requires a small blood specimen taken from your thumb or finger. This sample can be taken in your own home and posted back to the laboratory in the container provided in the kit. It is very simple and painless to use.

You then post the kit containing your blood sample back to the lab.

Flow will conduct the analysis and return your results within 12 working days. If your levels are elevated your results will come complete with the FLOW Homocysteine Balancing & De-Stress Programme, advice on supplement doses and details of re-testing to monitor your levels. Re-tests will be at a reduced price.
